MANY HARDSHIPS ON VOLCANO TRIP

Y. M. C. A. Party Has Very Hard Time of It.

RAIN INTERFERED VERY SERIOUSLY WITH TRAMP

Volcano House Reached Late at Night -- Trials and Tribulations of Travelers at Pahala.

When the Mauna Loa steamed up to the inter-island wharf this morning at 5:30 o'clock she brought among her passengers from Hawaii the Y. M. C. A. volcano expedition, headed by the physical director, Fred Young, has investigated the volcanic disturbances and incidentally taken a good long tramp through the southern districts of Hawaii. Despite the hardships they have undergone, the young men looked none the worse for the trip.

Fred Young, who personally conducted the expedition, gives the following account of it:

"The party, which consisted of H. C. Pierce, Harry Ham, William Kerr and myself, left this city in the Kinau last Tuesday. During the whole trip to Hilo, the weather was splendid and the sea exceptionally calm, the tourists as a consequence escaping the much feared attacks of mal de mer. Upon arrival in Hilo the party immediately set out to view the famous Rainbow Falls. We had hardly returned from them when Hilo, as is its usual wont, started to pour its rain with such effect that it prevented us from seeing the many wonderful sights of the metropolis of Hawaii.

"On Thursday afternoon we set out for the volcano in the train. This whole trip to and from the volcano was beset by a series of unfortunate incidents. To begin with, the train was late so that Mountain View, the station from which we started for the Volcano House, was reached at 5 o'clock in the afternoon instead of at 4:30 p. m.

"We had hardly started to walk when the rain began again and, during all the fourteen miles of the tramp, it kept up, at times only as a light drizzle but often coming down in buckets.

"To crown the misfortunes, one of the party developed biliousness on his heels so that the last part of the journey had to be made crawling at a snail's pace through the rain.

"Finally, at about 10 o'clock at night, the Volcano House was reached. Here a good dinner waited for the hungry crowd, which after eating, bled themselves after their downy couches.

"The next morning, it still rained and the greater part of the morning was spent loafing in the hotel.

"Later on, the party proceeded to the crater. From Halemauau, huge clouds of smoke and steam were ascending but as the wind came from the wrong direction, blowing the smoke in our faces instead of away from us, no fire could be seen. At the hotel it was ascertained that fire had been seen distinctly during all the five nights previous.

"In the afternoon at about 1 o'clock the party, after waiting in vain for a stage, decided to tramp to Pahala. The rain was still coming down quite heavily so the trip was far from being agreeable one. Dolloway's half-way house was reached at 4:30 p. m. Here a short rest was made and a light meal partaken of.

"Finally, at 8 p. m., Pahala was reached after an exceedingly weary tramp, the distance from the Volcano house to Pahala being twenty-four miles.

"At Pahala we found sleeping quarters at a Chinese hotel and, despite the fact that the accommodations were not conspicuous for their quality, the weary Willies rested well after their exertions.

"The next morning misery reigned. Only one of the party was able to get his rain soaked shoes on. The rest had to buy Chinese slippers to wear for the trip to Honouapo where we were to meet the Mauna Loa.

"Underhills were also bought by way of a dry change. Seeing that the trip to Honouapo could hardly be made in Chinese slippers, a bus was chartered and the trip made with some degree of comfort.

"The trip home in the Mauna Loa was much enjoyed after the hardships of the tramp but, despite the many adversities, all the boys are satisfied with the excursion and claim that even if no fire was seen, the trip was well worth making."

Mr. Young is now planning for another Y. M. C. A. tramp, the scene of this action being laid on this island. The excursion will start on the 30th of this month and is to be a tramp around Oahu, to occupy about four days.

The party will probably start over the pali, making stops at Kualoa, Kahuku and Waihala. Going from Waihala, the party may either take the train from Pearl City or continue on foot to this city. Those who would like to join in this tramp are requested to communicate either with Fred Young or H. C. Brown at the Y. M. C. A. building.

A shorter tramp under the auspices of the association will take place on Thursday of this week, as this will be a half-holiday. The excursion will be to the pali, starting from the Y. M. C. A. building at 1 p. m. All young men are invited to join.

WOULD BEAT THE HAG'S INDICATIONS OF COMBINE AGAINST LEADING TEAM

Practice Game This Afternoon With an Object Behind -- Kamehamehas Are Also Hard at Work.

The members of the Honolulu Athletic Club are smiling very broadly today since it has come to their ears that there is a combination on hand to pull them down from the first position in the league series of games so far. When it was announced yesterday that there was to be a practice game between the Malle-Hima and Custom House teams on the Makiki grounds, the object was very soon learned. It was a case of anything to "do up the Honolulu."

However, there is nothing wrong in such work. On the other hand, it means simply a determination on the part of such teams as the two mentioned to give the public better ball than they have ever succeeded in doing before.

The Malle-Hima and Customs are very strong teams, and if they can only do a little more in the line of batting, either one would give the Honolulu a close rub. As it is, the Malle-Hima are already given the Honolulu a game, the closeness of which was not entirely comfortable for the latter.

The Kamehamehas, remaining true to their reputation for reticence, are saying nothing whatever, but, when they cross bats with the Honolulu on the Oahu College campus next Saturday, they will present the very strongest combination they have yet offered.

Reuter, the old pitcher and one of the very best all-around players in the league, will very probably pitch the first part of the big game, Lemon being reserved for the latter part. The Honolulu have not had a taste of the work of either one of these men this year. Lemon has done some truly marvelous work so far and, with Reuter to back him up and an almost faultless in and outfield to second his efforts, there is no reason why Saturday's game between the Kamehamehas and Honolulu should not be one of the very best of the present season.

If the Kams win, they will give a big haul in celebration of the event.

Considerable "kicking" was done after the first game last Saturday over the refusal by police officers to allow the members of the two teams that had just played, to sit within the roped-off enclosure. One of the Custom House players remarked that he was doing a whole lot of work for nothing and he did not see why he should not be allowed to see the game from an advantageous position.

One of the officers of the league, to whom the remark was addressed, retorted that it was a representative of the Custom House team who made the motion to exclude members of teams who were not engaged in a game. It was not, therefore, by any fault of the league officers that such a state of affairs existed.

It is probable that at the next meeting of the league this rule will be changed.

Gentlemen, refresh yourselves at the First National Saloon.

INVESTMENTS ARE REPORTED AGAINST

E. M. Watson as Master Renders a Strong Opinion.

ALLEGES WRONG DISPOSAL OF A MINOR'S MONEY

Judge Humphreys' Decision in Parker Case Followed--Inter-Island Stock Investment a Speculative Venture.

E. M. Watson has filed a master's report in the matter of the guardianship of George Richardson, a minor. The proceeding was begun May 23, 1886, as the matter of the estate of Julius L. Richardson, deceased, and was changed into a guardianship on May 5, 1886, by the appointment of Hermann A. Widemann as guardian of the three minor children of the deceased, who acted until his death on February 7, 1899. The minors Ivy and Ruth have come of age and received their portion of the estate. The current account covers the period from January 1, 1901, to May 12, 1902. Total receipts are $11,445.84, and disbursements $8268.09, leaving a cash balance on hand of $3177.75. The investments amount to $53,467.80.

In treating of the investments the guardian comments on a note for $10,000 of the Union Feed Co., half of which is owned by George and the other half by Ruth Richardson. It is one of a series of notes aggregating $130,000, secured by a mortgage of the Union Feed Co. upon 84,691 square feet of land bounded by Halekua, Queen and Alakea streets, Honolulu, valued by local real estate dealers at over $200,000. Both of the guardians are stockholders in the Union Feed Co., but together do not have a controlling interest therein. One of the guardians is, however, a large stockholder and the treasurer of the corporation. No application was made to the court for leave to make this investment, and the master quoting authorities observes: "The general principle here applies that a guardian should not make a loan of his ward's money to himself, or to any institution in which he has an interest." Attention is also called to the fact that the note is payable to the order of the Bank of Hawaii as trustee and endorsed in blank "without recourse," besides which the bank holds the mortgage securing the whole series of notes aggregating $130,000 afore-said. The division of the Richardson note between two payees further complicates the investment and the master quotes law against mixing trust monies.

Regarding other investments, the master states that Mutual Telephone and Waiwae stocks were inherited from the ward's father, excepting 48 shares of Waiwae purchased by the former guardian, H. A. Widemann, about two weeks before his death. For these instruments, together with $6000 in O. R. & L. Co. bonds, 38 shares of I. I. S. N. Co. and $500 of a mortgage by D. McKenzie the master holds the present guardians in no way chargeable. But the investments by the present guardians in 19 shares of Inter-Island Steam Navigation Co. and $1000 in an Ewa Plantation bond he believes should be disallowed. The I. I. S. N. Co. investment is "in the nature of a speculative venture," being the stock of a private corporation and one which has paid only a dividend of 1 1/2 per cent during the last twelve months or more. As to the Ewa bond, it is precisely similar to the investments made by the guardian of Annie T. K. Parker disallowed by the Circuit Court, the deed of trust securing its payment being incapable of foreclosure without the consent of a majority of bondholders for an issue of $500,000 outstanding.

In conclusion, Mr. Watson recommends that the guardians be surcharged with the $1900 invested in Inter-Island stock and 4 per cent interest, with the $5000 belonging to the minor in the Union Feed Co.'s note and with the $1000 in the Ewa bond.

OFF TO HILO RACES

BIG CROWD LEAVES IN THE KINAU TODAY

Some Folks Going to the Volcano-- School Teachers and Children Homeward Bound--Cladding Has Full List.

"Is this for the local islands?" asked a pretty tourist in Wilder's steamship office this morning.

"Our steamers go to the various islands of this group," was the polite answer.

"On which island is the volcano?" "Hawaii has two volcanoes."

"Are either active?" "Kilauea is active enough to be interesting," was the reply.

The lady, after examining the list of passengers booked for the steamer Kinau, bought a ticket for the volcano. This is just an example of many similar scenes in the local steamship office.

Steamers leaving today for Hawaii are crowded. All the Kinau's accommodations were spoken for long before the vessel sailed for Hilo and way ports at noon.

Some of the passengers are bound for the volcano; others are home-returning school teachers and children, business men and ordinary passengers between the islands, but the majority of those who left in the Kinau are bound for Hilo to join in the Fourth of July celebration there and enjoy the races.

The crowd that filed up the Kinau's gangway, decorated with leis and clad in gay attire, was a merry one and the trip of Wilder's flagship, providing sea sickness does not interfere with joyousness, will be a decidedly jolly one. There was a large gathering on the wharf to see the sports, pleasure seekers, sight-seers and others off.

There was just enough fine rain falling when the Kinau sailed to keep fresh the pretty leis on the hats and around the necks of the departing ones.

Among the men were noticeable one or two who have never before been to Hilo. They whispered to each other that Hilo was a "jay town" and that there would be much money to be gotten on the races. These particular gentlemen, according to the experience of others in years gone by, are likely to come back as stowaways, unless they have round-trip tickets.

Prominent among those who are going to Hilo were the Honorable Samuel Parker and Mrs. Parker. W. H. Cornwell, Mrs. G. C. Beckley and daughter, Prince and Princess Kawananakoa, Miss Irene Dickson, Marston Campbell, Clarence and A. R. Cunha, H. M. Ayres, C. P. Denison, Mr. and Mrs. Goodsell, and Mrs. E. S. Cunha. Among those who will visit the volcano, hoping that Pele will stir a little to entertain them, are C. A. Park, Mrs. E. McNary, Miss Mary Campbell, Miss I. Vernon, S. Morgan and H. Jarro.

Those who intend taking in the Hilo races who did not go in the Kinau today will take next week's steamer, when special arrangements will be made to accommodate the crowds.

The steamer Claudine, sailing for Maui ports this afternoon, will be unusually crowded. Among her passengers will be a large number of home-returning school teachers and children. The Maui, sailing for Mahukona at 5 o'clock, will take but a few passengers. Numerous school children are going home to Kaula in the steamer W. G. Hall this afternoon. Passenger lists appear elsewhere.

Judge Gilbert F. Little, who came to town in the Kinau on Saturday, on business, returned home in the same boat today.

DECREE SIGNED FOR LANAI SALE

A. Barnes Is Appointed Commissioner of the Court.

ANOTHER HABEAS CORPUS FOR DOMINGOS FERREIRA

Judgment By Default--Demurrer To Plea in Abatement Sustained-- Various Probate Matters Adjudicated.

Judge Gear today signed a decree in accordance with his decision rendered on Saturday in the foreclosure suit of Gustave Kunst vs. W. H. Palm et al., ordering a sale of a two-thirds interest in the island of Lanai, out of the proceeds to be paid $70,000 to Kunst, $29,000 to Bishop & Co., $10,000 to Mrs. Neumann and remainder, if any, into court. A. Barnes is appointed as commissioner to sell the property, giving forty days' notice. A fee of $1500 is awarded to Geo. A. Davis, plaintiff's attorney, and $250 each to Holmes & Stanley and Hatch & Stillman, attorneys for mortgages.

Domingos Ferreira was again brought before Judge Gear this morning on a writ of habeas corpus. Geo. A. Davis appeared as his counsel. The grounds on which he claims his release are in effect that since being discharged on the former writ last week he has been again imprisoned without any new indictment, conviction or commitment, and is detained under the mittimus declared void by the court. Judge Gear, who was leaving for Hilo today and released the prisoner on a bond of $4000 with his brother Frank Ferreira and wife and Fred Harrison as sureties.

Judge Gear approved the accounts of Kate W. Cooper, guardian of the three minor children of the late Henry Cooper, on the report of A. G. Kaulin, master, and discharged the guardian. The master was allowed a fee of $25.

In the case of Victor H. Hoffmann et al. vs. J. H. Fisher, the demurrer to defendant's plea in abatement was sustained.

On motion of Atkinson & Judd, as order of default has been made by Judge Gear against defendant in the suit on a promissory note of Bishop & Co. vs. H. Klemme.

Judge Robinson allowed M. T. Simonton a master's fee of $100 for report on the estate of the Carter minors.

Benj. L. Marx, guardian of Alex. Martin More, has filed his annual account, showing receipts of $537.50 and payments of $385.25.

Kinney, Ballou & McClanahan have filed a bill of exceptions in the criminal libel case of Wong Shu King, in which defendant was sentenced to thirty days at hard labor.

GOVERNOR MAKES MODIFIED RULE

Their Sense of Official Propriety to Guide Officials.

Not Expected That Officials Should Forego Civil Rights--President Roosevelt and Cleveland Officials.

Governor Dole has modified his originally announced views regarding the degree to which government officials and employees might exercise the rights of citizenship in election campaigns. Membership of committees, chairmanship of meetings or even spellbinding upon the platform is permissible now, provided that the exercise of either function is governed by "a just sense of official propriety." From the very nature of the matter of "doing politics," the Governor concludes that "hard and fast definitions" are inadvisable.

Since yesterday's session of the executive council the heads of departments have issued to their subordinates copies of the following letter from the Governor. The copy here reproduced is that addressed to the Superintendent of Public Works, which in transmitting it says explains itself and requests that each recipient govern himself and those under his control accordingly: "Executive Chamber, Territory of Hawaii, Honolulu, June 23, 1902.

"Mr. J. H. Boyd, Superintendent of Public Works, Territory of Hawaii.

"Sir:—In relation to the recent discussion in the executive meeting on the subject of the political activity of officials, my opinion is that while it is not expected that officials shall forego their civil rights as citizens in political affairs, they should not use their official authority for the purpose of dominating the political party with which they are connected, or of controlling the result of elections.

"A just sense of official propriety should be the best guide in a matter of this kind, which from its very nature does not admit of hard and fast definitions.

"I recommend that the above be substituted for the instructions on this subject previously issued.

"Very respectfully,

"SANFORD B. DOLE."

Whether knowingly or not, Governor Dole, by the material concession here shown, is following the example of President Roosevelt, who has abated his purpose of disciplining Cleveland officials who had participated in election preliminaries. The President's come-down from the pedestal on which he had placed himself is related in the following press dispatch: Washington, June 19.—Senator Hanna had a long conference with the President today. At the conclusion in an interview he stated that the civil service commission had examined into Mr. Burton's charges that certain Federal officeholders in Ohio had taken an active part in politics and had failed to find anything in them that constituted a violation of the civil service law, as the result of which the President concluded not to send letters to Cleveland officials censuring them for pernicious activity in politics. Then with some warmth Senator Hanna said: "The mere fact that a man holds a public office does not necessarily mean that he should resign rights of citizenship."

RECOVERED ANCHOR.

The Young Brothers yesterday succeeded in recovering a large anchor weighing 5140 pounds, which has for a long time been lying in ten fathoms of water outside the harbor, between the bell buoy and Diamond Head.

Four days ago the mud-hook was discovered by means of their specially constructed glass-bottom boat. Yesterday afternoon a line was attached to the anchor and the tug Fearless hoisted it from the depths, bringing it into the harbor and placing it on the inter-island wharf. The anchor will be sent to Kaula to be used in the waters of that island as a "hitching post" for vessels.

BOSTON LYRIC OPERA CO.

The Boston Lyric Opera Company, W. A. Thompson manager, opened a ten weeks' engagement at the Grand Opera House, New Orleans, La., May 11th, presenting grand and comic opera. The company numbers fifty people with only two familiar names, Maude Leaky and Frank Masten. John J. Raffael and Martin Pache, two well known Tivoli singers, are in the cast.

Dramatic papers are generous in their praises of the opening performances and predict a most successful season for the company.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS FELT IN HONOKAA

Kilauea is still blazing a little; not increasing nor decreasing.

This is the entry made by Purser W. K. Simerson of the steamer Mauna Loa in the report of the vessel's trip filed in the company's office this morning.

The "blaze," however, is not visible to any except those who go near to Kilauea's inner pit and wait until the wind blows away the smoke enough to reveal a glow in the depths.

The volcano persists in smoking to a great extent, and it is reported that one or two slight earthquake shocks have been felt in Honokaa. A tremor was felt there Saturday night about 10 o'clock and another early Sunday morning.

ONE ACRE FOR CHURCH

By authority of the president, a meeting of the stockholders of the Kohala Sugar Company was called for this morning at 10 o'clock in the assembly room above Castle & Cooke's offices.

The meeting ratified the action of the board of directors in seeking an extension of the charter, the action of the board regarding the bonded issue being ratified as well. It was also voted to give one acre of land to the Catholic church of Kohala.

YACHTS TO RACE

The yachtsmen of the city are arranging for a great time on the Fourth of July. Most of the members of the yacht club will make the run down to the club house during the afternoon of July 3. They will rendezvous at the club house and during the evening there will be a feast at which a chowder will be the feature.

In the morning the yachts will be trimmed and sails set for the run up to the Peninsula, where the championship races will be viewed. The yachts will anchor along the course and their appearance will certainly add to the fine showing it is expected would be made. After the boat races the yacht races will be on. The complete program has not yet been fully decided on.
